Hello Health, Fun and Well-Being, Partners!

In this 179th Newsletter, I want to give us a chance to consider how aromatherapy can play a role in our physical, mental, emotional and spiritual well-being.

In order to put the rest of the newsletter in context: This conversation makes more sense if you've watched my 1st Health Proposal and my 2nd Health Proposal. So if you haven't, please pause, go back and watch them. You can also read all of the articles in full HERE.

EXPERIENCE THE POWER OF AROMATHERAPY IN EVERY CELL IN YOUR BODY!!!

After a stress filled day, we tend to look for a way to relax and release tension. We may look for that stress and tension reliever through a lot of different methods. Aromatherapy is the use of essential oils from plants for healing. It is now used by thousands of people for many different reasons including relaxation, upkeep of skin or hair, health problems or just to improve the smell of your surroundings. In order for aromatherapy to be done properly, there are many different oils that are used for it. In this newsletter, I want to focus on the impact that aromatherapy and essential oils can have on the well-being of our bodies and minds, as well as on our health.

This week on our Fan Page, we have articles that will offer you information on the many types of aromatherapy, as well as the wide variety of oils that are used in aromatherapy. Reading through the complete articles will provide you with a lot of well researched information on the physical, mental, emotional and spiritual effects that both aromatherapy and essential oils have over you and your body.

With aromatherapy practices such as massage aromatherapy and olfactory aromatherapy, relaxing has become easier and more enjoyable. Aromatherapy, along with the different types of oils used for it, have provided many physical benefits for people. For example, to provide a calm setting, you may use orange blossom oil, as it has active ingredients that literally produce a state of calmness for people. A French chemist by the name of Rene-Maurice Gattefosse, discovered the healing properties of lavender oil when he applied it to a burn on his hand. Essential oils were often used to treat burns, skin infections, gangrene and wounds on soldiers during the First World War. Other conditions that essential oils and aromatherapy have been said to improve are alopecia areata (loss of hair), constipation, insomnia and psoriasis, just to name a few.

Over time, more than 75% of the world's population has started using nature's remedies. Since scent has a special impact on living organisms and is found to be 10,000 times more powerful than taste, there is a direct effect of scent on the limbic system. The essence of these oils can be used as anti-depressants, sedatives, and tranquilizers and can aid in releasing endorphins.

When essential oils are included in massage therapy, people who suffer from depression show additional benefits. The scents like Rosemary, Pine and Eucalyptus are said to stimulate positive emotions and are directly related to the additional relaxation caused. Besides being anti-depressants, essential oils can decrease the amount of anxiety or confusion that you may have. Essential oils like Sandlewood are proven to be beneficial to your emotional state. They may relieve hopelessness, provide mental clarity and boost concentration. As an aside, they may also stimulate your appetite. With all of these positive reasons for using essential oils and aromatherapy, who wouldn't want to run out and get some!

The use of essential oils in aromatherapy is just a modernized version of a fantastic ancient tradition that stems from the Egyptians and Hebrews. The use of these oils for rituals was a symbolic encounter as well as a transformation of the body. In addition to being used for an improvement of self, essential oils have been used in specific rituals, such as for unionizing love in wedding ceremonies by bringing the spirits of the couple together and nourishing their spirits as they enter life together.

Oils can even heighten your living experience. It is said that once a person leaves a home, their spiritual persona is left behind. By cleansing the home with essential oils, you will be able to live at peace and (Cont. on next page) not bear the disturbances that the previous owners had. Aromatherapy has also been used in a spiritual context in vision quests as well as in yoga, meditation and prayer.

Over time, I have seen what improvements aromatherapy has had on me. During my long health journey I found that by adding oils to the medicines I was given along with the other natural healing work I did, I improved myself physically, emotionally, mentally and spiritually. Using sandalwood oil helped me with overall balance. Tea Tree Oil is my absolute best friend to use daily for clearing all the space in and around me and for busting it with refreshing energy and delicious smell. Lavender oil helped me (and still does) to relax and assisted in my sleeping.

I am also 100% healed from my precious "terminal" illness but its absolutely, thanks to a PLANT BASED DIET, aromatherapy, acupuncture, energy work and many more natural healing techniques, Human Angels and Angels totally helping me. The positive affects of aromatherapy contributed big time.

I use oils for Energy Work, to Improve my energy and to enhance my wellness depending on what I need every day, always with the aid of listening to my body.

Aromatherapy can be a great way to enhance our journey to become healthier and more stabilized! I encourage you to look into the different methods of aromatherapy and see which ones suit you. With all of the options that have been made available over the years, finding aromatherapy oils and a method to use them that you prefer should be easy and ABSOLUTELY BENEFICIAL !!!

SUBMERSE YOURSELF IN THE ENDLESS BENEFITS OF AROMATHERAPY OILS!!!

Aromatherapy is a form of therapy that uses essential oils for treatment. This therapy is done with the purpose of healing and improving the emotional system, as well as enhancing physical beauty. Essential oils are considered a concentrated extract from flowers, bark, stems, leaves, roots or other parts of a plant. Each essential oil is unique and contains its own mixture of active ingredients. Each unique recipe determines what the purpose of each of the oils will turn out to be. Purposes such as relaxation and mental clarity are all included.

Some experts believe that our sense of smell plays an important role in our health. "Smell" receptors from your nose communicate with your brain (with the amygdala and hippocampus) and serve as a storehouse for your emotions and memories. Researchers believe that when you smell essential oil molecules, they simulate the brain and have a great influence on your well-being.

Aromatherapy can be carried out in many ways. If you are considering using aromatherapy, here are a few options that could be beneficial to you:

- Cosmetic aromatherapy: using essential oils for cosmetic purposes. You can use them to improve the look and feel of your skin and for hair care.
- Massage aromatherapy: combines the powerful relaxing effects of a massage with the benefits of aromatherapy. In this method, a mixture of essential oils is made and massaged on the body by an expert masseur. This is an excellent method for healing, but you need to be very careful about the oils that touch your skin. The best way to ensure this precaution is to make sure that the professional does a patch test on a small area of your skin to detect its reaction before massaging the oils over your whole body. This patch test will prevent any unwanted reactions like rashes or itching.

- Olfactory aromatherapy: works by spraying the essential oils in your surroundings and either diffusing or inhaling. To enjoy the benefits of olfactory aromatherapy by inhalation, rub a tiny amount on a handkerchief or on the back of your palms. You can also mix the essential oils with distilled water and spray it in the air to enjoy the fragrance.

Today, aromatherapy is used with many different purposes. It can be used in any surrounding. From use in a health spa to use in a hospital, its uses range all over. In addition, specific oils are used to treat different conditions such as:

- Rosemary: Rosemary is thought to stimulate the brain and improve mental performance.
- Peppermint: Peppermint oils are known to relieve mental fatigue, enhance alertness and enhance memory.
- Lemon: The uplifting aroma of lemon has been known to enhance mental clarity and reduce stress and depression.
- Eucalyptus: The essential oil of eucalyptus is most commonly used to open the sinuses and bronchial passages. It is also used to relieve headaches and mental fatigue.

- Lavender: One of the most widely used essential oils, lavender is uplifting and relaxing.
- Jasmine: Jasmine is used to fight stress and anxiety and as an antidepressant.
- Thyme: The essential oil of thyme may help improve memory and concentration. It has also been know to relax the nervous system.
- Sandalwood: Sandalwood is often used to calm the nerves and induce (Cont. on next page)

The power of smell is more important to our physical, mental, emotional and spiritual health than we could ever imagine. Through using essential oils we can impact our health, thinking, and the way we feel. The first health proposal is about cherishing our body and the second one is about listening to it. In the second health proposal, I propose that we can notice and be aware of what our body needs and wants.

Listen to your body to tell you which oil would be beneficial and when, so that you can support yourself physically, mentally, emotionally and spiritually. You may notice massive changes in the power of your mind, your emotions, your physical health, and your ability to connect with Source/God/the Universe by making small changes. I invite you to go on this enchanting journey with me!

relaxation. It has very spiritually warming properties.

These uses are only some of the uses for natural oil. Although aromatherapy may be excellent for most people, there are a few people who should be cautious about using them.

- Pregnant women, people who suffer from asthma, and people who have experienced allergies before should probably avoid all essential oils or consult with their doctor first.

- People who suffer from high blood pressure should avoid oils such as rosemary and spike lavender.
- Those with estrogen-dependent tumors (such as breast or ovarian cancer) should not use oils with estrogen-like compounds such as fennel, aniseed, sage, and Clary-sage.

As you can see, oil essences are very helpful for many conditions. Therefore, I recommend using the option you find most useful. Listen to your body as you try different types of oils. With each oil, you will discover that your body will have an immediate reaction and you will be able to count on it to tell you which essences are perfect for you. Have fun while enjoying the healing world that your sense of smell can provide you with!

SIMPLE SPIRITUALITY & SUSTAINABILITY

I have created a Facebook Fan Page with these intentions:

1. To express three passions of mine that I have ironically been suppressing since 1999:
 - my passion for spirituality.
 - my passion for our earth/environment/plants/animals and the future of them/us all.
 - my passion for uniting all religions, spiritual expressions without excluding any of them and without relating to one as better than the other.....
2. To create a space where my friends and I can enrich each other's spiritual growth and we can all together empower our community (and our world) in their/our spiritual growth.

3. To have us all support each other and the world in learning to live sustainable lives and learning to "heal" the world in a "green way".
4. To answer my lifelong "calling". A calling to: team up with leaders in our community/world and together lead the way towards a Self-Realized Civilization, creating/waking up to a NEW GLOBAL VISION and maybe even questioning all our belief systems.
5. To make it all simple and synergistic.

ESSENTIAL OILS CAN POWERFULLY ELEVATE YOUR MIND AND SPIRIT WITH AN ARRAY OF DELICIOUS AROMAS!!!

Essential oils are extracted from plants that are known to contain hormones, vitamins and antibiotics. They represent the "life force," "spirit," or "soul" of the plant. When aromatherapy is being carried out, it is used in small quantities through inhalation, massage, or other applications on the skin. Each of the oils has a different use in spiritual and emotional practices. Many oils can be used for a variety of things, but some oils are said to have a specific purpose:

- Aloes/Sandalwood: enhances meditation and prayer. It quiets the mental chatter that so often distracts us during meditation.
- Cassia: extremely similar to cinnamon, but smells much sweeter and more pleasant. It enhances circulation and supports the heart.
- Cedarwood: provides steadiness and balance to the spirit. This oil encourages the strength we need to continue on our pathway and urges us to hold fast to our dreams.
- Cypress: very helpful in times of transition. These transitions could be anywhere from career changes to spiritual decisions.

- Galbanum: allows for the shedding of old ideas and outdated behavior and attitudes. It may shed light on life's purpose and on the inner self.
- Hyssop: long history of acting as a cleansing herb. It can be used to cleanse any area in which you are planning to meditate, pray or give healing.

Each of the oils has specific recommended roles. For example, essential oils like Pine, Rosemary and Eucalyptus can be used for mental disorders, depression, headaches, mental exhaustion and mental fatigue. Other essential oils like Clary Sage, Orange, Patchouli, Calamus, and Ginger makes the nervous system healthy, sedates emotions and anxiety, and improves nervous system disturbances. In addition, it is also good for the brain. It boosts the brain's memory and tonic and expels phlegm & catarrh.

Aromatherapy is also known to help in
